

---

KUNST
HISTORISCHES
MUSEUM
WIEN

---

NEUE BURG

FROM MARCH 2013

---

THE IMPERIAL HUNT

PRINCELY HUNTS IN THE RENAISSANCE

The opening of the newly-installed imperial "Jagdkammer" in the permanent galleries of the Collection of Arms and Armour focuses on a seminal part of princely pomp and circumstance. The collection of hunting paraphernalia and guns is newly installed in a splendid gallery in the Corps de Logis of Neue Burg Palace. This magnificent location provides a fitting setting for over 90 objects connected with hunting as the sport of princes during the late Middle Ages and the Renaissance.

The golden aviary that housed the precious falcons and the lavishly embroidered falcon lures form the focus of the newly-installed gallery. Vienna houses the world's largest collection of courtly equipment for hunting with falcons. This new installation now showcases a large part of this exquisite collection.

---

KUNST HISTORISCHES MUSEUM WIEN

---

NEUE BURG

PRESS PHOTOS

---

Falkenhaube

Oberitalienisch zwischen 1494 und 1508

Geschenk des Kaiser Maximilian I (1459-1519)

an seine zweite Gattin Bianca Maria Sforza (1472-1510)

© Kunsthistorisches Museum Wien, Hofjagd- und Rüstkammer

Jagdarmbrust des Kaiser Maximilian I. (1459-1519)

Zwischen 1508 und 1515

Spanien und Innsbruck.

© Kunsthistorisches Museum Wien, Hofjagd- und Rüstkammer

CONTACT

---

Kunsthistorisches Museum, Burgring 5, 1010 Wien
www.khm.at

Press Information:

Nina Auinger-Sutterlüty, MAS

Leitung Presse & Öffentlichkeitsarbeit

T +43 1 525 24 - 4021

info.pr@khm.at